All aspects of the University of London degrees and diplomas described in this prospectus, including examinations, assessment and progression, are governed by the regulations of the University and its Schools for the degree and the diploma. Nothing in this prospectus or other communications supersedes the Regulations. Every care has been taken to ensure that the information contained in this prospectus is accurate at the time of printing. Errors and omissions have no force. Applicants should note that the content of the programmes is subject to continuing development. Changing circumstances may necessitate the cancellation of courses or alterations to the programmes' content. CeDEP reserves the right to make changes at any time, before the student's admission. Where possible, notice will be given about such changes but the University and its Schools cannot accept any liability arising out of or in connection with them.

Freedom of expression

On and off campus, SOAS is committed to the pursuit and dissemination of knowledge. This can only be conducted effectively in an atmosphere of open enquiry, mutual tolerance and intellectual freedom. In practice, this means that we acknowledge the paramount importance of freedom of expression. Freedom of expression may not be exercised to threaten the freedom of expression of others. In making this assertion, the School endorses the principles of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and related international covenants. Furthermore, the School of Oriental and African Studies does not tolerate any form of discrimination based upon race, religion, gender, ethnicity, nationality or intellectual conviction. Membership of the School is predicated upon the acceptance of these principles. In accepting this Statement and the predication of membership of the School based upon these principles, the School reserves the right to take action against individuals or groups who violate these principles.

FSC – Forest Stewardship Council. This ensures there is an audited chain of custody from the tree in a well managed forest through to the finished document in the printing factory.

It is important to us that all materials used in the production of this document are environmentally sustainable. This prospectus has been printed on paper using wood which comes from sustainable managed commercial forests and is fully biodegradable without harmful effect to the environment. Their print production process recycles 95% of all chemical waste and 90% of all dry waste associated with production. Vegetable based inks and a single site production process requiring absolutely no transport between production processes further reduces the environmental footprint.
